OurBus increases service from Livingston and West Orange to New York City on Monday 7/17/17

NEW YORK — After tasting success during the first week of service, OurBus, Inc. is enthusiastic to announce additional departure times and stops to the Livingston and West Orange area. OurBus, a technology company, received raving reviews and various requests to increase service after their initial launch of the Livingston-West Orange-New York commuter route on July 10th. Commuters voiced their satisfaction by speaking with OurBus representatives and through creating an OurBus Facebook group.

OurBus is pleased to experience success as the first crowdsourcing technology company to implement a new bus route based off the requests of commuters themselves.

In addition to appreciation from commuters, NJ Mayor Rob D. Parisi of West Orange expressed his gratification for the luxurious and cost-effective OurBus commuter route. "When I learned of the OurBus technology, focus on our community, and opportunity to provide yet another option for our current and future residents, I was happy to offer my support in any way possible." Parisi explained, "One of the biggest selling points of living in West Orange available to our residents are the commuting options to Manhattan. As our community continues to grow, we continue to receive feedback with suggestions to enhance these options for commuters."

Passengers can board OurBus to New York city at several convenient stops in Livingston and West Orange.
